Hello,

Well, it's not Wednesday, but it is Rob Burgess, NUVO News Editor, back with you once more this week. I hope you've been able to dodge enough of the storms to get outside and enjoy some of the more pleasant weather.

On Wednesday night, I had a chance to interview State Sen. Eddie Melton, D-Gary. The previous evening he announced his intention to form a gubernatorial exploratory committee and launch a statewide listening tour. He is currently the only Democrat or Republican to state their intentions to challenge incumbent Gov. Eric Holcomb. In addition to the story I wrote, with help from The Statehouse File's Lacey Watt, take a few minutes to listen my interview with Melton, in which we covered a range of topics. It's all part of the increased audio and video offerings we've been producing at NUVO, which I'm excited about.

Finally, I have some bittersweet news to end this week's newsletter. This will be my last week as News Editor. I'm moving on to a new position starting next week, and I wanted to end my tenure here with a note of appreciation. I always respond the same way when I receive any feedback to something I've written — be it positive or negative or somewhere in between: Thank you for reading. I mean it.

If you want to get in touch with me for any reason, I'll still be around. You can email me at robertandertonburgess@gmail.com. I will still have my Facebook and Twitter accounts. And, you can follow along with everything I'm doing at my website. Also, I don't know if you know this, but there's a really great podcast called The Rob Burgess Show you should check out.

Best,

Rob Burgess
